

#1828 The Yom Kippur War and the Abomination of Desolation – The post-World War II U.S. waxing great toward the South and toward the East as a second Syria/Antiochus IV Epiphanes, part 87, The Great Colonial Hurricane of 1635: The Great New England Hurricane of 1938 is often paired with the Great Colonial Hurricane of 1635 (continued)

Key Understanding: The Great New England Hurricane of 1938 is often compared to and paired with what became known as the Great Colonial Hurricane of 1635. [The Great Colonial Hurricane of 1635 occurred on August 15, 1635, Old Style, which would have been at that time August 25, 1635, New Style.]

- Here is one of a number of sources that pair the Great New England Hurricane of 1938 with the Great Colonial Hurricane of 1635:

“New Yorkers give little thought to hurricanes since Long Island is so far from the warm, tropical oceans that feed hurricanes. However, according to the 1984 Hurricane Damage Mitigation Plan by the Long Island Regional Planning Board, several hurricanes and 15 tropical storms have made landfall in this area since 1886. According to historical record, there have been five ‘epic hurricanes’ (Category 3 or higher on the Saffir Simpson Scale) in the years 1938, 1893, 1821, 1815, and 1635 (Hughes).

An empirical study of 20 past hurricanes that have impacted the New York City and Long Island coast regions by Scheffner and Butler (1996) found that the return period of a category 3 or greater hurricane is approximately 80 years. A strong category 3 or minimal category 4 hurricane has a return frequency of approximately 200 years. (Click directly on the graph to the right – which is #1828–Doc 1 – for a larger image.) Therefore, it is not unlikely that another ‘epic’ hurricane will strike the Long Island coastal region in the coming decades.”

Here is #1828–Doc 2, which contains the fuller article which includes the above information, but it is not necessary to read through it. We are simply including it so as to better record where the information came from.

Matthew 7:26-27 (KJV) And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto A FOOLISH MAN, WHICH BUILT HIS HOUSE UPON THE SAND [Church-ill on the Sand at Dunkirk, which relates directly back to the September 21, 1938, appeasement of Hitler by Chamberlain in the Czech-German crisis]:
27 AND THE RAIN DESCENDED, AND THE FLOODS CAME, AND THE WINDS BLEW, and beat upon that house; and it fell: and GREAT WAS THE FALL OF IT.
